Testing in Context

Brown requires the SAT or ACT as part of the application process. Brown evaluates the whole student by considering test scores for each student within the context from which they come. Test scores are but one factor among the many Brown considers when conducting a whole-person review of applicants. The most important consideration in the admission process is a student's high school performance and preparedness, including grades, skills mastery, teacher recommendations and the depth and breadth of their academic learning both in and out of the classroom.

BROWN

Financial Aid

We strongly believe that a Brown education should be accessible to all regardless of their economic background. Brown has a need-blind policy for all first-year applicants regardless of citizenship status.

Need-blind admission means that a student's ability to pay for a Brown education is not a factor in the admission decision. The policy's basic premise is that a family's financial need will never be a disadvantage in the admission process. This has allowed us to further open our doors to students who might previously have thought an Ivy League education was out of reach. Brown is committed to maintaining a student body that is strong in intellect, diverse in character and driven to achieve. Any student who possesses these qualities should have the opportunity to study at Brown. The need-blind policy further underscores this commitment.

Applying to Brown

Note to Counselors

1. Early Decision: We are a single-choice, binding Early Decision program. Students admitted Early Decision to Brown are committed to attend and must withdraw all Regular Decision applications as well as any pending applications to non-binding early programs.
2. Video Introduction (optional): The video introduction provides students an opportunity to tell us more about themselves beyond their application. Sharing a brief video (no more than 90 seconds long) is a helpful way for students to show us who they are and why they are interested in attending Brown.
3. Alumni Engagement: While we do not offer alumni interviews, we will offer opportunities for applicants to interact with alumni, both in person and virtually, throughout the year. The Office of College Admission will notify applicants of those events as they arise.
4. Course Selection: Selecting courses is an individual process, and we cannot advise on a student's specific schedule. However, we encourage students to take the most challenging curriculum available to them in five major subject areas (English, science, math, social science/history, world language). Students should challenge themselves academically, and we are fully aware that every curriculum is different.
5. Fee Waiver: As part of our commitment to make a Brown University education accessible to students from all income backgrounds, Brown is making automatic application fee waivers available to more students. Brown will automatically waive the application fee for any student who is enrolled in or eligible for the Federal Free or Reduced Price Lunch program (FRPL), as well as students who are enrolled in federal, state or local programs that aid students from low-income families (e.g., TRIO Programs). Additionally, Brown will automatically waive the application fee for any student who belongs to a community-based organization or college access organization that promotes educational opportunity for low-income students. Brown will continue to honor fee waiver request forms from the College Board, NACAC and school counselors.
6. Slate.org: This free platform strengthens communication among undergraduate admission offices, school counselors, community based organizations (CBOs) and students during the college search and application process. School counselors and CBO counselors can upload materials directly for applicants in addition to tracking their application status and decisions. We encourage you to create a Slate.org account if you do not already have one.
